EIGHT-HOUR MOVEMENT.

LABOR LEADERS TALKING OF REVIVING IT AT CHICAGO.

A Claim that Instead of Being Crushed By the Haymarket Bomb It Is To-day Stronger Than Ever—Canvassing for the Sentiment of the Unions—Notes.

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—Notwithstanding that the leaders of the Labor party are working hard in anticipation of the spring campaign, they find time to talk about a renewal of the eight-hour movement, which was brought to so sudden a halt by the Anarchistic bomb last May. They claim that the movement, instead of having been crushed, is stronger than ever, and that it will be carried to a successful issue next May.

The Socialistic majority in the trades assembly is engaged in a canvass of all the unions in its jurisdiction to ascertain the sentiments of the workmen on the question, and the result thus far, it is claimed, is all in favor of eight hours. However, there will be no public demonstrations in the interest of the movement for some time to come, as the workers are afraid of serious opposition from Powderly and the executive board of the Knights of Labor. Among the things that are predicted is a renewal of the strike at the stock yards for shorter yards. The men who are engineering this movement claim it will result differently from the last two strikes, since a boycott has been declared against Armour.

Fifty Thousand Miners to Strike.

HAZELTON, Pa., Jan. 13.—The executive committee of the Miners' and Laborers' Sub-division No. 1 of District Assembly No. 135, Knights of Labor, which includes the entire anthracite coal fields, held a session there yesterday, and resolved to declare a general strike of all employees engaged in the mining and preparation of coal that goes to the places affected by the strike of the New Jersey coal handlers, providing the strikers approve of this as being the most effective manner of rendering them assistance. A telegram announcing the action of the committee was sent to the strikers.

Master Workman P. F. Brennan stated after the meeting that if the action of the committee is approved by the strikers 50,000 of the 100,000 employees in the anthracite coal fields would stop work. The cessation of work at the collieries would prevent non-union hands from taking the places of the strikers. The strike, it declared, will affect the Schuylkill, Lehigh and a great portion of the Wyoming regions.

Horsehoofers Return to Work.

BOSTON, Jan. 13.—A conference was held between representatives of the striking street railroad horsehoofers and the contractor, at which all the demands of the men were granted. The men returned to work at once. By the new arrangement the floor men will receive $11 per week, and foremen $15 per week of six days, of ten hours each. The agreement was made binding for six months.

Leaving the Church for the Knights.

OSHKOSH, Wis., Jan. 13.—It was stated last night by a prominent member of Rev. George Neutzel's Lutheran church that about sixty members will withdraw on account of the action of the reverend gentleman toward the Knights of Labor. The church has a membership of 250.

MILITARY CALLED OUT.

Strikers at Newport News Burning Property and Indulging in Riotous Acts.

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 13.—Riotous demonstrations on the part of the striking employees of the Old Dominion Steamship company at Newport News occurred yesterday. A telegram from L. Bremond, general traffic manager of the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad at Newport News, to Gen. Wickham, second vice president of the company, says: "The strikers have taken possession of Pier No. 2, set fire to the bath house of the Old Dominion Land company, and perpetrated other outrages."

Bremond asks for an armed force to protect the company's property and arrest the offenders. Judge Peck, of War Wick county, has made a formal call upon Governor Loup for military aid, and he has taken prompt action in the matter by ordering three companies, two white and one colored, from Richmond, and one white company and one colored company from Hampton to proceed at once to the scene of the disturbance. The Richmond companies left at midnight.

"RATHER BURN THAN JUMP."

An Old Man Perishes in a Destructive Fire at Portsmouth.

PORTSMOUTH, O., Jan. 13.—At 5 o'clock this morning fire was discovered in Banning's saloon, on Court street. When the department arrived it was plainly seen that the entire block would go. Three alarms were sounded, calling every company. White's jewelry store, Lorberg's merchant tailor store, and Miss McClellan's restaurant were quickly destroyed.

While the flames were doing this destructive work, a fire was seen in the second story front room of Banning's saloon. It proved to be Thomas Murphy, aged sixty, a boarder, half dazed. He answered the cries of jump with "I would rather burn than jump." His charred remains were taken out shortly afterward. Loss $12,000; insurance about $3,000.

Hiram Cottage Rededicated.

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 13.—Hiram College, which was enlarged and remodelled during the past season, at a cost of $10,000, was rededicated yesterday, a great many people from this city being present. Speeches were made by a number of prominent educators.

WALKED IN WATER TO KEEP WARM.

Terrible Sufferings of a Shipwrecked Crew. Their Vessel Plundered.

HALIFAX, N. S., Jan. 13.—Capt. Carw and the surviving members of the Newfoundland schooner Minnie, from Georgetown for St. Johns, have arrived here. They tell a thrilling story of shipwreck, suffering, death and the plundering of the vessel. The Minnie struck on Kelly's Shoal, in the Bras d'Or Lake, during a blinding snow on the afternoon of December 28. It was bitterly cold, and the men, while bashed to the pumps, were covered with ice. The water steadily gained on the pumps, the vessel struck a treacherous sea, which stove her bow and filled her with water. The ill-fated vessel sank within five minutes. As the schooner sank out of sight the men jumped in their dory and pulled for what they could dimly discern through the blinding snow to be the land. After rowing some miles they reached land. They crawled ashore and found themselves on an island on which there were two houses. One of the crew persisted in crossing the woods to the nearest house, but had not gone far before he froze to death.

The rest of the crew, including a brother of John Gathral, the man who died, concluded they could only escape a similar fate by keeping in the water. They walked two miles along the shore in water up to their armpits, hauling their boat after them. While suffering terribly from cold and exhaustion, they succeeded in saving their lives, finding the temperature in the water much milder than out of it. When they reached one of the two houses on the island they looked more like moving icebergs than like human beings. They were kindly cared for. After being fed and warmed a general alarm was raised, and the whole population turned out with lanterns to search for the body of the frozen man. They found him next day. While searching for the dead man the captain and crew found the wreckage of the vessel being plundered by the lighthouse keepers and people of the mainland. Capt. Carw says he could not induce any mariners to arrest or punish the wreckers, and if he is ever again cast away on this coast he will be found armed with revolver and bowie knife. The vessel was owned by the captain and was not insured. Both himself and crew got back to Newfoundland with only what they stand upright in, and with a cent's remuneration for their long summer's labor, or to keep themselves and their families during a long and bitter Newfoundland winter.

A NEW ORLEANS TRAGEDY.

A Young Man Kills His Sweetheart and Attempts to Kill Himself.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 13.—Valin Bemo today shot and killed his sweetheart, Clara Carter, and then attempted suicide. They were from St. Charles parish, just above the city. The girl, who was only seventeen years old, came to New Orleans five months ago, and was in the employ of Mrs. Reed, on St. Andrews street. Bemo frequently came to the city to see her. For three weeks past he had been endeavoring to persuade her to marry him and return with him to St. Charles. The girl, however, was unwilling to leave, and made excuses which seemed only to enrage Bemo. Last night he insisted upon her going with him, and to-day he returned to the house in a violent passion. The girl was not home and Bemo slipped into her room. He was standing against the mantle piece when she entered. "Will you go home with me?" he asked her, fiercely. She answered "No."

"Once more, I ask you to go home with me," as he drew a revolver.

The girl fled him, and answered him "No," but did not retreat. He thrust the pistol into her face, and fired twice, and she dropped dead where she stood. Then placing the pistol against his own head, he fired, and his body fell over that of the girl. The entire scene was witnessed by Mrs. Reed, who stood at the door. An examination of Bemo showed that the bullet had struck his skull, but had glanced off, stunning, but not seriously injuring him. The murderer is only twenty-two years of age.

Senatorial Fight in Nebraska.

LINCOLN, Neb., Jan. 13.—The senate fight has not got hot yet. There are eleven Democrats upon whom Van Wyck can depend, making his absolute strength fifty-three. There are eighty against him, of whom fifty-three are Republicans and twenty-seven Democrats. The moving questions now are how to get twenty-four more votes for Van Wyck, or how to concentrate sixty-seven votes against him. Congressman McShane will probably be the Democratic caucus candidate and force the Democrats together.

Suffering Among the Indians.

FORT KEOG, Mont., Jan. 13.—A special from Fort Shaw says: There is terrible suffering and privation among free Indians on the south fork of Sun river. They are entirely destitute of food and clothing, and not in any way fortified against the inclemency of the weather. The Indians subsist almost entirely by hunting and fishing, and the low temperature and heavy snow have rendered it impossible to secure food of any description.

A Young Lady Missing.

LYONS, N. Y., Jan. 13.—The people of Wolcott, a village in this county, were aroused yesterday morning by the ringing of church and fire bells. It was found that Belle, the handsome twenty-year-old daughter of Sheriff Borden had disappeared. The girl had not been well for some time. She was not fond of the society of gentlemen, and the theory of suicide is not admitted. A general search was instituted, but was of no avail.

NEWS FROM THE CAPITAL.

THE SENATE CONSIDERING THE INTERSTATE COMMERCE BILL.

A Vote on the Measure Not Likely to Be Taken for Several Days Yet—"Nothing Certain About It"—A Close Vote Predicted—Trade Unions—Notes.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—The senate resumed consideration of the interstate bill, Mr. Cullom has repeated his intention of asking the senate to remain in session until the bill shall have been disposed of, but Mr. Ingalls, in the senate, stated that he hoped that the gentleman in charge of the bill would not pursue such a course.

It seems quite improbable that a vote on the bill will be reached for some days yet, as Mr. Allison will to-morrow endeavor to obtain the floor for the consideration of appropriation bills which have been acted upon by the senate committee. A great deal of interest is displayed both inside and outside of the respective chambers of congress as to the probable fate of the interstate commerce bill.

A representative of the United Press who has made careful inquiries, reports that Mr. Cullom, the gentleman in charge of the bill, is the only senator who is willing to predict favorable action. There are a number of senators who say they think the bill will pass, but the statement is invariably qualified with the phrase: "But there is nothing certain about it."

Mr. Cullom maintains that there was a vote taken to-day the bill would have more supporters than it had when debate began. Senators Everts, Aldrich, Teller, Plate and Stanford may be quoted among those who consider the result uncertain, and the latter senator has made what he considers as close a canvass as is possible at this time.

There are about twelve senators who yet desire to speak on the subject, and in view of this fact, Mr. Cullom will doubtless do no more than request the senate to sit the measure out, and an adjournment at the usual time to-day will probably be the result.

Those most interested in the matter including those of the third house, and they are numerous, are inclined to construe delay in final action on the bill as unfavorable. From all the information that can be obtained, it cannot be predicted with any degree of certainty which way the majority will vote, and this uncertainty will probably exist until the roll is called. The indications merely point to a very close vote.

Trade Dollar Redemption.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—To-day the house committee on coinage, weights and measures took up for consideration the senate bill providing that after July 1, next, trade dollars shall be redeemed to the extent of $500,000 monthly, and be counted as part of the monthly purchase of bullion, as now required by law. An amendment striking out that portion of the bill requiring the redemption to come from the monthly purchase of bullion was defeated.

Another amendment, providing for the extension of six months after the passage of the bill of the time for redemption, was carried, and Mr. Scott was ordered to report the bill to the house, and to take such measures as may be necessary to secure its consideration. A favorable report was also ordered on Mr. Bland's resolution, calling on the secretary of the treasury for a statement of the amounts of silver bullion purchased monthly under the act of February 27.

WHO OWNS PEORIA?

Matthew S. Quay, as Attorney, Says It Belongs to the Kenos.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 13.—It has been learned that M. S. Quay, the present state treasurer, and prospective United States senator, will soon secure a power of attorney from the Reno family, residing in Rochester, N. Y. He will make an effort to recover a portion of the ground on which the city of Peoria, Ill., is built.

The estate is estimated as being worth $300,000,000. The Reno family consists of about fifty persons, who reside in Rochester, Erie, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, St. Louis and California. It seems that a number of years ago they lived out west on Philip Reno, who, it is claimed, purchased a vast estate, comprising nearly all the ground upon which the present city of Peoria, Ill., with its nearly 20,000 inhabitants, now stands. Some time after his death it was learned that he died intestate, and the late Lewis Reno, of Rochester, who is a nephew, secured sufficient proofs to enable him, on behalf of his share, to realize several thousand dollars from the estate.

Next he also died some twelve years ago, since when the matter has been allowed to rest until now. The heirs have contributed money sufficient to enable a Pittsburg attorney to secure a plat and copies of the boundaries of said property. It is also learned that he has in his possession copies of the original proofs under which Lewis secured the substantial benefit already referred to. Mr. Quay thinks there will not be much difficulty in establishing the truth of the claim.

Will Mine for Coal.

BRAZIL, Ind., Jan. 13.—The Champion Coal company, Bloomington, Ind., with a capital stock of $50,000, is the latest coal firm incorporated. The principal stockholders are F. M. Dugger, H. T. Neal and E. C. Harbold. Greene county is turning out a large and increasing quantity of coal, mostly bituminous, but of excellent quality.

EASTON, Pa., Jan. 13.—Daniel Thomas and family, of Easton, consisting of himself, wife and five children, ate canned clams for supper last evening, and during the night all were taken violently ill. Towards morning their condition became critical, and several doctors were called. Their condition is still very dangerous. Some of the family ate the clams raw, and others stewed. All who ate them raw were the most affected.

They Failed to Get There.

LONDON, O., Jan. 13.—In Cannon township, Charles Matthews and Miss Cora Corrigan, while driving to this place in a sleigh to obtain license to marry, attempted to pass another sleigh in advance of them and were thrown out. Matthews' left arm was broken and Miss Corrigan suffered the fracture of the collar bone.

THE DEATH SENTENCE.

Passed Upon James McElroy for the Murder of Walter Mart.

HENDERSON, Ky., Jan. 13.—After a week's trial the case of James McElroy came to an end yesterday and was given to the jury, after elaborate arguments had been delivered on both sides. After a deliberation of a little over two hours the jury returned a verdict, finding the defendant guilty and sentencing him to be hanged. McElroy's crime was a most wanton one, and, briefly summarized, is as follows: On the afternoon of the 25th of September last Walter Mart, a prominent former, came to Henderson, sold a load of watermelons, and before returning hired M. Elroy as a work hand.

On their way home McElroy, who was sitting behind Mart, struck his employer on the head with a club, crushing in his skull, causing instant death. He then robbed his victim, and leaving the dead man in his wagon in the road, fled. He was trailed for several weeks by a mulatto farm hand of Mr. Mart's, and finally cornered near Raleigh, Ky., and captured, after a desperate fight with the sheriff's posse. He was brought here and placed in jail, but within an hour a mob formed to lynch him. The sheriff spirited him away at night, and was chased for several miles by a mounted mob, but the officers succeeded in getting safely to Hopkinsville, where he was kept until his trial came off.

The case has occasioned much excitement, and the verdict is regarded as a very satisfactory one to all save the colored population, who exhibit considerable excitement over the matter, and say that McElroy is not guilty, and that he will not be hung if they can prevent it. They are loud in their denunciations of the jury, and trouble is feared from them. McElroy is a desperado of the worst class, and has had several battles with the officers. Some months ago he attempted to murder the marshal of Uniontown, one ball grazing the official's head. A motion for a new trial will be made by McElroy's attorneys, but on what grounds is not known, but it is the expressed opinion that if a new trial is granted justice will be more speedy than one anticipates.

ELEVATED RAILROAD ACCIDENT.

Three Employees Injured and Several Hundred Passengers Badly Shocked.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—An accident occurred yesterday evening on the Sixth Avenue Elevated railroad, at the Fifty-third street station, by which three of the employees of the road were injured and several hundred passengers were badly shocked. A switch had been left open by a new switchman and a train full of passengers going to Harlem, at 7:10, ran into a baggage car which lay in the middle track. The engine of the baggage car was thrown off the track, as was also the baggage car, which fell across the rails.

The baggage car came down from Harlem to the New York City and Northern Big-gage company at No. 243 West Fifty-third street. After receiving what baggage there was Harry White, the baggage master, and a brakeman took the car to the middle track between the up and down tracks to let the uptown trains pass. The switchman forgot to close the switch and when the train came up town it entered the open switch and crashed into the rear of the baggage car, driving it ahead and shaking it so that a number of bolts fell out of the front trucks, causing the car to lean over to one side. The engine was also overturned.

James Ford, a machinist in the employ of the company, residing at No. 500 West Fifty-fourth street, was on the train. After the crash he jumped from the train to the track. He was badly injured. The baggage master, Harry White, and the brakeman, it is said, were also injured and sent to their homes. The passengers in the other trains were badly shocked, but no one was injured. Superintendent Hain was called to the scene, and a number of men with two engines were put to work to raise the engine and baggage car. This was not done until after midnight. For hours after the accident passengers who rode up town on the road, and were stopped at the scene of the accident, crowded the station at that point and clamored for trains to take them to Harlem, or return their money, but were refused.

FIRE AT PITTSBURG.

Several Persons Injured By an Explosion of Natural Gas in a Burning Building.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 13.—At 11:30 o'clock this morning the fire department were hastily summoned to quench a small blaze in the rear part of the cellar of a two-story brick tenement building on Twelfth street. A line of hose was run through the window to the rear and the fireman hard at work in the cellar, when a terrific explosion of natural gas took place, which shook the building in the entire square. The firemen were thrown violently against the cellar walls. Assistant Chief Steele was in front and received the most serious injuries. His face, neck, breast and arms were terribly burned.

Chief Evans was thrown from the cellar steps to the hall above, his hair, beard and eyebrows burned off. Joseph Milligan and Paddy Graham, of Truck A, were badly burned in the face and arms. Fireman Haupt, of Engine company No. 15, and Paddy Myers, of the Niagara company, were both severely burned in the face. Steele, Milligan and Graham were the most seriously injured. They were attended by physicians, and then removed to their homes.

Fire in a Revenue Office.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 13.—The fire early this morning in Internal Revenue collector Cox's office was extinguished with a loss of five or six hundred dollars. Only a few records and papers were destroyed, which can be easily duplicated.

An Indian Interviewed.

LAWRENCE, Kan., Jan. 13.—John Early, a half breed chief of the tribe of Ottawas, of Indian Territory, was here yesterday with half a dozen of the leading men of his tribe adjusting the financial affairs of the tribe with attorneys in this city. Early says the tribe is very anxious that Oklahoma be opened for settlement. He says the Atlantic & Pacific railroad is grading and laying ties with an immense force through that country now, preparatory to its opening. He denounces the severity plan of their lands in the most bitter terms as the Indians are not civilized enough for it yet. "It means," said he, "that our people are to be cheated out of their homes by speculators. The white man's greed dooms the Indian to extinction."

Twenty clerks in a store, twenty hands at a printing office, twenty apprentices at a ship-yard, twenty men in a village—all want to get on in the world, and expect to do so. One of the clerks will become a partner and make a fortune, one of the compositors will own a newspaper and become an influential citizen; one of apprentices will become a master builder, one of the villagers will get a handsome farm and will live like a patriarch—but which one is the lucky individual? Lucky! there is no luck about it. The thing is most as certain as the rule of three, the young fellow who will distance his competitors is he who will master his business, who lives purely and cleanly, who preserves his integrity, who devotes his leisure to the acquisition of knowledge, who gains friends by deserving them, and who saves his spare money. There are some ways to fortune shorter than this old, dusty highway, but the staunch men of this community, the men who achieve something really worth living—good fortune, good name and some old age—all go on this road.

SQUIRE LESLIE MANNEN, of German town, has returned from Cincinnati, where he went to consult a physician as to the injury to one of his eyes, caused by a ball from a Roman candle Christmas night. Mr. Knoll has won a host of warm friends by his gentlemanly conduct and courteous bearing during his short stay in Maysville, and their best wishes will accompany him when he leaves here. On the first page of the spelling book after the back is torn off, it reads this way: "Love laughs at locksmiths &c. It may laugh when a young man hangs a $15.00 bible on a cross as free (morocco bound golden clasps done up in a box) for his girl. But we will bet dollars to cents the laugh changes when another fellow steps in next day and takes her to a dance and leaves him to stand around and count the interest on $15.00 spent for love for 100 years at 6 per cent. Surely the way of the transgressor is hard. NONFARIEL.

OUR NEIGHBORS.

MURPHYSVILLE.

The revival meetings in the Murphysville Methodist Church are moving along grandly. Tuesday night, Rev. T. F. Garrett preached from Proverbs 20:25. Miss Jeanie Brooking, of Kansas, came forward and joined the church. The immense audience join heartily in the singing, led by Mr. Bolden, cornetist, and Miss Mattie Tarlton, organist. There have been seven additions.

Agriculture.

A gardener who has an early piece of ground remarks that green peas for the early market are a safer crop for moderate but sure profits than any other.

So long as cows will eat grain or meal it will pay to give them some daily. If it don't they are probably not worth keeping, anyway. Good milk cows will grow poor when kept on grass alone and in full flow of milk.

Fresh, cut-green grass makes the best milk for either currants or gooseberries. It lies close to the ground and will keep down weeds better than any thing dry or coarse like straw. Gooseberry bushes need to be on moist ground and have their roots kept cool as possible by heavy mulching.

There is very little gained by turning under a crop of timothy as green manure. Its roots do not run so deeply as those of clover, and the crop, even when used as green manure, does not ameliorate the subsoil. It is, besides, more valuable for a hay crop for market than either clover or any other grass.

Cows often chew corn cobs, not for their nutritive value but for the mineral they contain just as they will chew old herbs. In such cases wood ashes, or, better still, ashes from corn cobs will be eaten as greedily as salt. Ashes for cows when on green feed corrects acidity on the stomach, and a few supplied occasionally will do good.

LATEST NEWS FROM LONDON AND OTHER FOREIGN PORTS.

Sudden and Unexpected Death of Lord Iddesleigh—Inaugural Meeting of the Liberal Radical Union—Evicting Tenants in Ireland—Foreign Notes.

LONDON, Jan. 13.—While holding a conference with Lord Salisbury this afternoon, Lord Iddesleigh, who recently resigned the ministry of foreign affairs, was taken suddenly ill and expired shortly after.

Lord Iddesleigh's physician has issued the following bulletin regarding the death of his illustrious patient: "Lord Iddesleigh has for many years suffered from cardiac affection, rendering the prospect of a sudden death only too possible. He died of syncope. His death has not been unforeseen by his immediate friends and has been anticipated by his medical attendants."

The inaugural meeting of the Liberal-Radical union was held in St. James hall last night. The hall was crowded to its full capacity and the utmost enthusiasm prevailed. Everything went swimmingly until the organizer attempted to play "God Save the Queen," when a storm of hisses, hoots and catcalls arose. This demonstration was offset by tremendous cheering from another part of the hall, and the efforts of the organizer went for naught. At the first notes of the National anthem, which evoked signs of displeasure, all the members of parliament occupying seats on the platform arose and cheered with the exception of Mr. Bradlaugh, who remained silent in his chair. The majority of those present were clearly in favor of Mr. Bradlaugh's action, as was shown by the fact that the hisses and groans were sufficiently voluminous to drown the cheering and the additional one that they endorsed the member for Northampton by terrific cheering after the first outburst had subsided.

Mr. John Morley addressed the meeting in a vigorous speech, in which he praised Lord Huntingdon for refusing to assist Lord Salisbury in saving the political antiquities of the Carlton club from disaster. The defection of Mr. Goschen, Mr. Morley said, had not caused any great refrigeration of the Liberal atmosphere, and the drawing together of the cleverest young member and the most respected old member of the house of commons would scarcely strengthen a government which was indeed like an old pump whose handle had come off. Every mention of Mr. Gladstone's name was greeted with enthusiastic applause.

The London Press.

LONDON, Jan. 13.—The Standard says the speeches of Prince Bismarck and Gen. Von Moltke in the reichstag make the situation look darker, if possible, than ever. Gen. Von Moltke's assurance if Germany's desire for peace is doubtless sincere and made in good faith, and Prince Bismarck's utterances in the same strain may possibly be sincere also, but stringent measures to endeavor to maintain peace only show how precarious the continuance of peace is.

The Times thinks it probable that Prince Bismarck will be defeated in the reichstag. His statements are discouraging both to those who have looked to Germany as the mainstay of peace or the basis of treaty rights and those who have hoped to see Europe relieved of the burden of enormous armies involving increasing taxation.

The Standard says Earl Cadogan, chairman of the colonial exhibition committee, has resigned.

The Daily Telegraph takes a thoroughly optimistic view of the situation, and expresses its belief that the speeches of the German chancellor and the commander-in-chief of the imperial army will have a good effect in preserving peace.

The Daily News expresses the opinion that the speeches will have a bad effect upon the peace of Europe, and tend to confirm the already widespread fears that Germany is meditating an attack upon France.

The Telegraph, in an article on the Reichstag debate, says Prince Bismarck's speech will chill the martial order of the French Revanche party.

Victory for a Tenant.

DUBLIN, Jan. 13.—At Rossmannagher, County Limerick, a landlord named Desterre, attempted to evict a tenant named Frost, who owed him more than £700 for rent. The police, followed by a large crowd of people, upon arriving at Frost's house found it barricaded, and outside the front entrance a large pile of stones. In front of this pile and securely bound to it by chains was Father Little, the parish priest. The police surveyed the scene and found that the priest had been chained in such a manner that entrance to the house could not be forced without disturbing him. This they were disposed to do, but the crowd threatened to assault the police if they laid hands on the priest, and finally became so demonstrative that the police drew their batons and charged upon the people. The priest still chained to the pile of stones, vehemently denounced the landlord who had accompanied the police to the house, and Desterre finally agreed to settle the matter by allowing Frost to purchase his building on the basis of eighteen years' rental.

LONDON, Jan. 13.—A series of evictions has been begun on the Winn estates in County Kerry. As the tenants are evicted their houses are burned, to prevent the return of the occupants. This procedure has created intense excitement, and bloodshed will probably result from its continuance.

Foreign Notes.

In the French senate M. Sardi-Carnot said that what was requisite to the prosperity of France was stability within her borders and peace abroad. "Peace," he said, "was desired by all, but in case of necessity France must prove that she has not lost time during the last fifteen years."

Joseph and Charles Sturge, extensive corn merchants and millers at Birmingham, England, summoned a meeting of their creditors to-day, and announced their inability to continue business. Their liabilities are estimated at £150,000.

Hon. Bernard Coleridge, M.P., son of Lord Chief Justice Coleridge, in a speech at Sheffield last night, said that he freely gave his moral support to the National League's plan of campaign.

Lord Iddesleigh announces that his retirement from the secretaryship of foreign affairs was not due to political differences with his colleagues, and that he is as much a Conservative as ever.

The extraordinary military credit of France for 1887 will be augmented from fifty million to eighty-six million francs.

We sell more of it than all other cough remedies put together. You see our customers risk nothing in buying, as the proprietors authorize all druggists to guarantee it; so if this does not give you satisfaction, we will refund the money. It has made some remarkable cures," he replied.
